1. How do I apply for a scholarship?

All students can apply for a scholarship after the admission or beforehand on their own initiative, for example at a (political) foundation. At www.stiftungsindex.de or www.scholarshipportal.com you will find foundations that offer scholarships. Under certain preconditions, German and foreign students are entitled to receive Bundesausbildungsförderung (BAföG). For instance, Germans with a bachelor's degree or foreign students who resided in Germany before their studies can be sponsored. For conditions, see: <http://www.das-neue-bafoeg.de/de/372.php>

2. Who grants scholarships to foreign students?

2.1. University of Hamburg (UHH)

International full-time students may apply for merit scholarships or exam grants of Universität Hamburg. For more information, please use the provided link. We also recommend contacting our colleagues in the Department of International Affairs for further guidance.

See: http://www.uni-hamburg.de/internationales/studieren-an-der-uhh/finanzierung-des-studiums_e.html

2.2. German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD)

As a foreign student, you may apply for a DAAD-scholarship at the German embassy in your home country. For further information see: <http://www.daad.de/deutschland/stipendium/en/>

Please note that there are different, usually earlier application deadlines than for the M.P.S.-program. In most cases, applying for a DAAD-scholarship will take 12 months' time. It is possible to apply even before your final examinations (i.e. when your studies in your home country have not yet been completed). If you send us your application form before applying for a DAAD scholarship, we will check your qualifications and write you a letter of support for the DAAD. Currently, the DAAD-scholarship is €750 per month plus expenses for your travel costs.

DAAD scholarships for undergraduate and postgraduate students

The German Academic Exchange Service (Deutscher Akademischer Austauschdienst, DAAD) offers a wide variety of scholarships and grants to undergraduate and postgraduate students from all over the world. To learn more about the DAAD scholarship announcements for your country, please visit the following website:

2.4. Cusanuswerk e.V.

The Cusanuswerk is the scholarship body of the Catholic Church in Germany and awards government scholarships to exceptionally gifted Catholic students in all branches of academic study.

The most essential element of this sponsorship is a comprehensive interdisciplinary education programme that aims to encourage discussion about science and belief, society and the Church.

With the scholarship recipients' the openness and their readiness to take on responsibility, discussions arise across the borders of personal specialist subjects, in confrontation with current topics and encounters with other biographies. Issues of fundamental orientation for scientific, social, professional and personal actions are the main focus of the Cusanuswerk scholarship award programme. This includes an examination of the Christian faith. The development of the distinctive identity of each scholarship recipient is another objective of the Cusanuswerk scholarship programme. The educational programme is complemented by a range of spiritual courses as well as tutorial support during academic studies.

The Cusanuswerk supports:

- Young women and men, who are highly qualified in their field, have interdisciplinary interests and work creatively.

- Personalities, who are thoughtful and open, ask questions and are not satisfied with easy and fast answers.
- People who are willing to take a stance, take responsibility and also actively engage out of their field.
- People who take their religion seriously and who want to shape their church and their world actively.

Promotion:

- During the standard period of studying
- Singles and families:
 - Basic scholarship: 649 € per month
 - For study related costs: 300 €
